

Go big, or go ~~home~~ bigger!

Fellow art lover,

When we're young, most of us have big dreams for our lives. Have your dreams changed over time? Do you find that some doors have closed, but other (perhaps better) doors have opened?

'Dreaming in Full Color'

Oil painting by Holly Van Hart, Details & purchase info here

My dream of being a full-time artist is coming true, and I'm blessed with a wonderful husband and sons, but many of my other dreams have slipped away. Or maybe they just haven't happened yet (like my dream of exercising consistently).

At the age of 13, our older son Skyler dreams of being a pediatrician, a software developer, or an 'IT guy'. Erik, age 11, wants to be an architect or engineer or inventor like his Dad. At this age, all doors are open. Anything is possible! They are, as they should be, dreaming in full color. Isn't that grand?

In this painting, 'Dreaming in Full Color', the flowers represent our dreams, shown in their full glory. The flowers are dancing around through the turbulence and beauty that we call life. Some dreams won't survive this turbulence, but others will become bigger and stronger.

When it comes to your dreams, here's wishing that your most color-full ones come true!

Your friend,

Holly

P.S. A big 'thanks' to you for your recent referrals!! They resulted in some happy new collectors, and a happy artist :-). Referrals are the biggest compliment I could receive.
