

Silicon Valley Artist Holly Van Hart Exhibits Nationally and in Taiwan This Spring

Published: Tuesday, February 27th 2018, 3:35 pm PST

Six Exhibitions Feature Her Latest Abstract Tree and Floral Paintings

SILICON VALLEY, CALIFORNIA - 02-27-2018 (Press Release Jet) --

Today, Silicon Valley artist Holly Van Hart announced that she has been invited to exhibit her acclaimed abstract nature paintings in two solo exhibitions, three group exhibitions, and one international art fair this spring. Van Hart's work is collected widely around the world, and this is the first time it will be exhibited in an art fair outside of the United States.

The common theme throughout these exhibitions is Van Hart's fascination with the limitless opportunities we have in our lives. In her tree and floral paintings, the fullness of nature is used to symbolize abundance and the generation of new life and new ideas.

From March 1 - April 15, the X-Power Gallery in Beverly Hills will feature Van Hart's work in a solo exhibition entitled 'Paradise Found'. The show features 10 new nature paintings. The artist will give a talk at the reception on March 4, 2-5 p.m, and part of the reception proceeds will benefit the Keep A Breast Foundation.

From May 17 - 21, a selection of Van Hart's abstract tree paintings will be exhibited at the A.R.T Fair in Taipei, Taiwan. This is the second largest art fair in Asia.

Ongoing group exhibitions at Dean Day Gallery in Houston, TX, Bluestone Fine Art in Philadelphia, PA, and The Studio Shop in Burlingame, CA also include Van Hart's work.

Preston Metcalf, Deputy Director at the Triton Museum of Art, says Van Hart's work is "powerful in its message of human connectivity." DeWitt Cheng, art critic for ARTnews, has compared the simplified forms in her work to those of Léger and Mondrian. Cheng says "Van Hart's naturalistic yet symbolic paintings present their enigmatic subjects with both beauty and conviction, memorably."

Information on all these shows and venues can be found at hollyvanhart.com/events.

Information on Holly Van Hart can be found at hollyvanhart.com/press-kit.

About Holly Van Hart: Holly Van Hart is based in Silicon Valley, CA, and maintains studios in Silicon Valley as well as in New York. Van Hart has been awarded Grand Prize at the California Statewide Painting Competition. She has had solo exhibitions at the Triton Museum of Art, University of California San Francisco, and her alma mater Stanford University. The Huffington Post, Professional Artist Magazine, The Mercury News, Silicon Valley 'Talk Art' TV, and Houzz have all featured Van Hart's work.